Re: Workers' Compensation Leave

Hello [Employee Name],

We are writing to let you know that a workers' compensation claim has been opened regarding your reported injury.

We understand that a workplace injury can create uncertainty, and we want to ensure you are connected with the appropriate resources throughout the process. While I oversee workers' compensation matters at a broader level, I am not the primary contact for the day-to-day handling of your claim.

Your claim has been assigned to [TPA], our workers' compensation administrator. A [TPA] claims examiner will be your main point of contact regarding claim decisions, benefits, medical treatment coordination, and claim-specific questions. You can expect to hear from your assigned examiner within the next 24 to 48 business hours.

If medical evaluation or treatment is needed, you may also receive a referral to one of our occupational health partners.

Please provide a copy of any work status report you receive from your treating provider to your Manager. This documentation allows us to appropriately track your claim, understand any work restrictions, and coordinate return-to-work efforts when medically appropriate.

Please note that any time away from work is considered unexcused until supporting medical documentation is received.

During any period of absence, your Manager will remain your primary workplace contact and may periodically check in regarding your status and anticipated return-to-work plans. It is important that you remain responsive and maintain communication with your manager. Failure to respond to outreach attempts or maintain communication may result in a review of your employment status.

If you have questions regarding your claim, benefits, or medical treatment, please contact your [TPA] claims examiner directly. If there are concerns that cannot be resolved through the normal claim-handling process, I can become involved as needed to help address those issues.
We wish you a smooth recovery and appreciate your cooperation throughout this process.

Sincerely,
[Name]
